DEAD IÖNÈ

EMPTY are the ways,
Empty are the ways of this land
And the flowers
    Bend over with heavy heads,
They bend in vain,
Empty are the ways of this land
    Where Iönè
Walked once, and now does not walk

But seems like a person just gone.

EZRA POUND

AFTER TWO YEARS

SHE is all so slight
And tender and white
    As a May morning.
She walks without hood
At dusk. It is good
    To hear her sing.

RICHARD ALDINGTON

It is God's will
That I shall love her still
    As He loves Mary,
And night and day
I will go forth to pray
    That she love me.

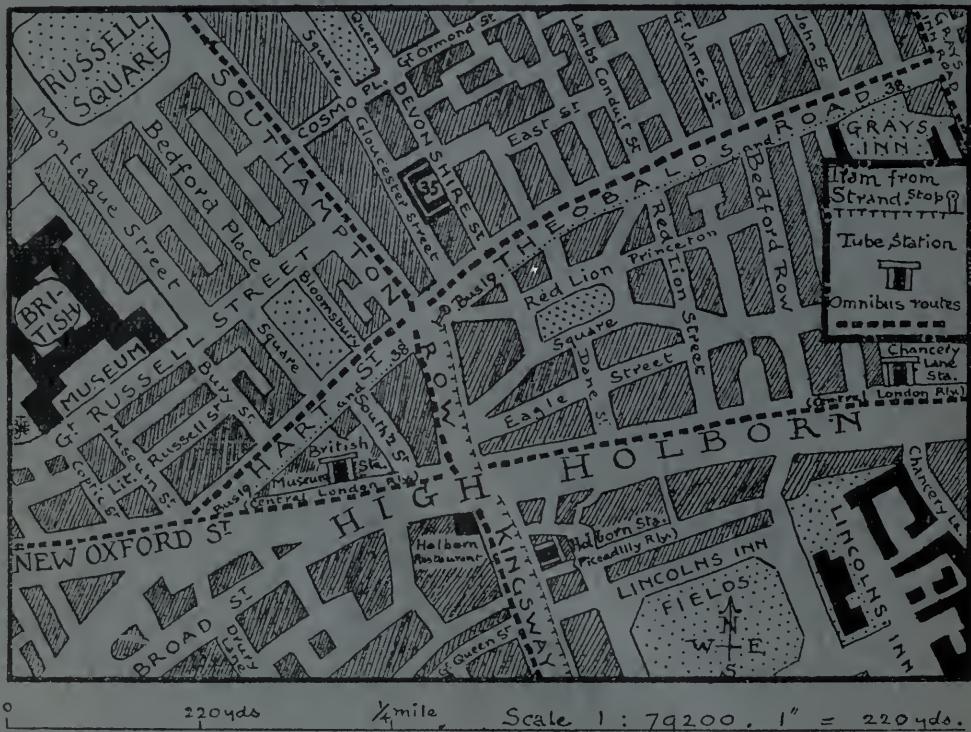

She is as gold
Lovely, and far more cold.
    Do thou pray with me,
For if I win grace
To kiss twice her face
    God has done well to me.

THE POETRY BOOKSHOP.

During 1915, while the publication of POETRY AND DRAMA is suspended, a series of Chapbooks and Broadsides, usually with illustrations, will be issued by The Poetry Bookshop, at prices varying from one penny to a shilling.

Readings of poetry will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6 o'clock. Further particulars of these are sent on application.

A monthly list of new publications will be issued to replace the Book Lists hitherto appearing in POETRY AND DRAMA. Copies will be sent regularly to any address on application.
